Core Services Encourages Community Involvement.

Morristown, New Jersey, January 8th, 2007 – With the start of the new year, Core Services Founder and CEO, Jim Bistis, is planning Core Services' philanthropic goals for 2007. "I feel very strongly that our Company and I should give back to the community that has provided us with the opportunity to prosper," says Jim Bistis. "Making a difference in worthy causes allows our wonderful team at Core to enjoy the spirit of volunteerism and contribution." Most recently, Bistis has been able to use the Company website as a portal for employees, partners, and clients to donate relief funds to the victims of Hurricane Katrina and the Tsunami disaster.

Jim Bistis and the Core Services family do more than just raise money. He and his team actively participate in local and regional charitable events. Mr. Bistis has been involved personally in raising money and awareness to help parents with autistic children afford specialized therapy. This focused, though very expensive, therapy, employing the "Miller Method[®]," is a Cognitive-Developmental Systems Approach for Children on the Autism Spectrum, taught by a guru in the field, the highly respected Dr. Arnold Miller. With the help of a newly launched website, golf tournaments, and raffles, Jim has been able to offset some of the six-figure therapy costs for several families with autistic children working with Dr. Miller. With additional events planned in 2007, including a Spring Black Tie event, Jim's goal is to have a continuing positive impact on these families and their children.

Core also participates in The Far Hills Race Meeting at Moreland Farms, in Far Hills, NJ. As a corporate sponsor, Core annually raises money during this traditional steeplechase event benefiting The Summerset Medical Foundation.

Core Services also will sponsor and host clients at The Starlight Gala, Houston's largest young professional American Cancer Society fundraiser slated for March 24th, 2007. "This event is special because just about everyone knows a person that has been or will be touched by Cancer at some time in their life," says Core's Director of Marketing, Jennifer Lasida, who is leveraging her strong coordination skills assisting with event planning for this cause.

Additional Gulf Coast programs in which Core is involved include the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo (HLSR). As a sponsor of multiple events over the last three years at the Rodeo, Core's participation has supported fundraising for local scholarships. Since the HSLR scholarship and educational program began, more than $100 million has been committed to Texas students for their education.

Core's philanthropic spirit also touches some of their clients. In California, one of Core Services' newest clients is the YMCA of Metropolitan Los Angeles, to whom Core has already donated consulting services. With 25 branches in the Los Angeles area, The YMCA exists to build strong kids, strong families and strong communities.
