Core Services Offers Fixed Fee Proof of Concept for Oracle Business Intelligence Enterprise Edition

Empowering Companies to Make Faster and More Effective Decisions

Somerset, N.J., June 1, 2010 – Core Services Corporation (“Core Services”), an Oracle Platinum Partner, launched an exciting and innovative service this week, which enables Oracle clients to acquire critical insight into how Oracle Business Intelligence Enterprise Edition (“OBI EE”) will empower their decision-makers.

“Using Core Services’ OBI EE Proof of Concept, Oracle users will gain first-hand knowledge as to how Oracle’s Business Intelligence (“BI”) platform will leverage the investment already made in their existing data sources by unleashing the value within that data,” says Ernesto Espinoza, Core Services’ National Oracle Business Intelligence Practice Director. “Oracle’s BI applications, which include the BI foundation and tools, provide the industry’s first fully integrated, end-to-end Enterprise Performance Management System.” Espinoza continues, “Employing our OBI EE Proof of Concept, companies will master how they can seamlessly harness and convert massive volumes of customer and internal operational data into effective business decisions.”

In as little as one to two weeks, Core Services will leverage the OBI EE Suite to reveal how a targeted set of users can benefit from personalized and easy-to-use dashboards. Core Services has the expertise and competence to effectively deliver Oracle’s full spectrum of analytic applications including corporate performance management, interactive dashboarding, and embedded analytic functionality. As such, Core Services’ clients enjoy enhanced insights across multiple business units.

“Today’s rapidly evolving business environment requires critically effective decisions to be made at every level of an organization,” according to Espinoza who concludes, “Keenly aware that business units in virtually every type and size organization must constantly increase profitability, Core Services is deeply committed to providing their clients with the cutting-edge forecasting and analytic tools needed to develop winning business strategies.”
